

Problem Statement

Restaurant owners struggle to maintain operational control and food quality when managing delivery orders due to poor visibility into runner timing and status. This information gap forces them to cook blindly, leading to cold food, stressed staff, and customer complaints that damage their reputation.